Lifeline of a Culture

Dan Nacario

Man needs a reminder constantly of things he once knew but in the course of his own history it was lost. Or was it? We are proud of what we have now, but little do we know it is not ours. Your designer shoes and bags were nothing more but a symbol of our nimble minds that succumb to even the slightest influence. Call me hypocrite for saying this while in fact this very article was written using na foreign language. Pardon me but maybe nobody would read this if it is written with our own language and not “too imported” enough. We have gone so much from where we have started have we really gone somewhere?. I guess not.

Our ignorance to the old and forgotten had lead us to a culture of narcissists and the impressionable but all isn't lost for our culture SALVATION. The celebration of life, arts and tradition we as society had left out to be forgotten a long time ago. Pinaggikanan promotes the idea of preserving the origin stories of different places and present them in a new wave of creative expressions. From paper to storybook, canvas and color, our culture is more than alive in the hands of the young generation. Call it idealistic but the seemingly dead tradition is just waiting ate the bend of the road to lead the way for we are its LIFE-LINE.

On Culture-Based Teaching

Dan Nacario

The old needs reinvention, let us start with our classrooms. Let us look at the way we have been dealing with the world of teaching and learning. The old is the new. With all the technological advancement we as a race ever accomplished with our puny existence it only means a click or to bring back what our development as a society has destroyed.

With all our available tangible and intangible culture all we need is a bit of creativity and turn them to instruction. We have to think outside the box and go back to where we have started, are you up to the challenge

Teachers must be equipped with all we can have held unto, and culture is on heck of a grip handle to save and transform a culture in need of a new way of looking at things.

Help reinvent the old, start with yourself. Act now!

Surrender to Silence

Dan Nacario

Endymion! Till when shall you sleep?

Under dreams reign you fell too
deep,

Awake now! and leave perfect bliss

Oh! but Diana's touch you'll miss

Silenced by ravens' dear abyss.

Haiku

Aking karamay
Sa agos nitong buhay
O, Kaibigan

Ako'y gabayan
Oras ng kagipitan
Iyong pakinggan

Mapula-pula
Itong rosas na dala
Saiyo sinta

Kanyang pangalan
Na kung umalingawngaw
Nakakagimbal

Ngiti at tuwa
Sayo'y nahahalina
Ako'y namangha
